Coronavirus - Continuity in Action

The COVID-19 pandemic is forcing social distancing and isolation, which means it's not recommended for groups of people to congregate for events like conferences, networking, training, and workshops.

But we humans are a social species, who need connection and interaction to survive and thrive. We also have an economic obligation to keep our businesses and industries going. So we have to think of creative ways to deliver the experiences we need to help professionals grow, whether that's in the workplace or beyond.

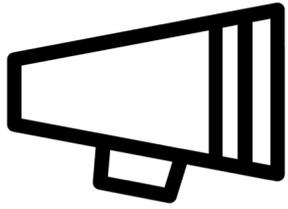

That's how Passion Pioneers came up with the REIMAGINE REMOTE – QUICK GUIDE SERIES. Each complimentary Quick Guide will cover a different scenario that is usually completed face-to-face or in-person, and offer practical, powerful alternatives for you to help keep your business going if attendees are at home.

The value of in-person events is that they are immersive – they tap into multiple senses (including sight, sound, touch), they create an atmosphere, they encourage professionals to step out of their day-to-day, and they provide an experiential activity for learning, development, and connection.

These are what will replicate as we create continuing connected experiences.

Reimagine Remote - Networking

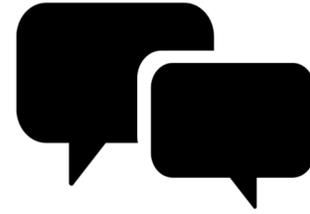

HOST ONLINE

Find an online video platform, like Zoom, that can be used to livestream speakers from their own computers. You can even add interactivity with polls and chat.

PROVIDE CONTACTS

Once people are on the platform for the live event, provide a downloadable list of all the attendees, with their workplace, role, and LinkedIn profile link to show who's there.

ENCOURAGE CHAT

If your platform, like Slack, supports private chat or direct message, ask your attendees to reach out to people they are interested in talking to.

CREATE CONVERSATION

Set a game or a challenge for a period of time that requires them to engage with someone new. Answers can be sent to a facilitator or poll, with digital prizes.

MAKE IT SOCIAL

If it's a breakfast meet, encourage attendees to bring their tea and toast on camera. An evening affair? Why not join with a glass in hand of their favourite drink.
